Put up a prayer for me!"

John Brown of Osawatomie, They led him out to die: And lol-a poor slave-mother With her little child pressed nigh, Then the bold, blue eye grew tender, And the old barsh face grew mild, As he stooped between the jeering ranks And kissed the pegro child!

The shadows of the stormy life That moment fell aparts Without, the rash and bloody hand, Within, the loving heart. That kies from all its gullty means Redeemed the good intent, And round the grizzly fighter's hair The martyr's aureole bent!

Perish with him the folly That seeks through evil good, Long live the generous purpose Unstained with human blood ! Not the raid of midnight terror, But the thought that underlies ; Not the outlaw's pride of daring, But the Christian's sacrifice.

Oh I never may you blue-ridged hills The northern rifls hear, Nor see the light of blazing homes Flash on the negro's spear. But let the free-winged angel Truth Their guarded passes scale, To teach that right is more than might, And justice more than mail !

So vainly shall Virginia set Her battle in array ; In vain her trampling squadrons knead The winter snow with clay, She may strike the pouncing eagle; But she dares not harm the dove; And every gate she bars to Hate Shall open wide to Love !

Church established at the place called the hoenee Mission, owned ten negroes ; several of them were "run of," as they call it, by the free-time men and the others he found it convenient to mil. Culouel Titue lost bie slaves in the same manger. Clark, the Indian agent seat out from Washing un, had a female stare, who was taken from him by like means; he advertised the fugliles, but never got her back, and she is now married and living respectable in one of the cities of the free states. The only slaves now in Kaness are thore who stay voluntarily and of choice with their masters. Probable the case of Colonel Johnson, a sealone free state man, is the only one of this description. He was one of those kind masters of whom we are glad to know and happy to edmit that there are many in the slave states; be brought his negroes with him to Kansas; he educates them, does his best to raise their intellectual and moral character, but talls them that they are free to leave his service when they please, and they are more than content to remain. The assertion of Mr. Buchanan that the claims of the slare ownere are respected in Kansas seems to be made by way of excuse for not recommending the posses of laws for the protection of slavery in the territories. The truth is that it would be idle to pass such a law with an eye to Kansas, for it would never be executed there.

The question of the slave trade is brought op in the message; the laws for its suppression are commended, but the effect of what Mr. Buebraan says in their favor is nearly destroyed by his admission that thees who violate them expost be brought to justice,

PROUD OF MY COUNTRY.

Our Country's young and full of enterprise; -Rich in her wil and beautiful her skier: Her mountains losty, and her rivers long. Already five in history and sung Her asst extent our honest pride awakes. Her boundless prairies and her chain of lakes, Her acean quarte, her forceste, mines and farme, Her city splenders and her rarel charms, fler steambon's, railroads, ships and telegraphe, As which old Time himself, e'en sometimes laughs To find himself out-run, and wnaders too, What these inventive Yankees next will 4.2

But other themes of gratulation rise-Our means of growing learned and good and wise Meens ample, culminating, maltiplied, To teach the young idea how to ride, Not now with railroad speed, for that is slow. But with electric much and lightening's glaw. Look at the Prace, before which Terante cower. O'clay its thussan! conies every hour: Think of our schools and Academic Halls Where each young Cicero harran, use and bawle; Think of our churches with their lofty spires And seared worship, to awake desires F r elevated views and no le deeds, And hely love, which for the suffering pleads; Look at our Colleges on every hand. Where youthful, ardent minds, a levely hand, Are trained to intellectual strongth, and grow le moral worth, to feel fur human woe.

But stop, ore friends, 'tis not enough that we Both learned, and good and wise and kind can be What to be good and wise is very tame. That will not give you happiness or fame; Oh no ! You most be -yes -you must be rich; That is the precious Gem, the Jewel, which Most give you worth and blessings far above What can be done by wiedom, truth and love!

Well, we've the means of wealth; our commerce Into our laps its far-fetched, varied stores: Exchange enriches us-the Yankees know

How to swap even and still their purses grow. But time would full to tell of fisheries. Of agriculture, manufactories, Of cotton, rice, tobacco, pork and wheat And hundred other things with which you meet In this wide theiring land, to help us fill Our coffers large -then wish for larger still.

"But, Oh my country! highly favored land! With all thy scenery, sublime and grand; With all thy genial skies and fruitful soil Yielding such large rewards for daily toil, Wish aff thy churches, colleges and schools; With all thy boasts that Liberty here rules; With all the pride I've felt when thou wer't named Of thee, my country, I am core ashamed!

Shall million alves be in my native land Robbed, tasked and scourged by keen oppression's hand-

Shall million alayes be here to whom is given No word of life, nor Sabbath, type of beares -Shell million slaves here work from more to night. Copaid, abused, deprived of every right, This is my native land, and I not mourn? All this and more on soil for Freedom claimed And I, not of my country, be ashamed?

In England have they slaves? On British ground? Has Holland slaves, or Purtagal or Spain? Or France or Germany? You look in vain For each a chattel there; but ack them where Such may be found; such victims of despair, They'll aur! the lip of score, (us. score awaite. And point you o'er the scena to those United States

Ob Inconsistency! More glazing, base, Than ever blanched or reddened human face! To talk in praise of Liberty - and then Stamp with your heel upon your fellow men. Task them and scourge them, make them work f.

Unpaid, unpitied, all their journey through This mortal life, till death shall give release, And let their suffering limbs repose in peace Yes, work them, jeer them, out them to the bon And then, McDuffe like, in Southern tone, Call Slavery our Republic's corner stone! Ohl muckery, beyond degree and name! Shame on each bypocriter, a burning shame. Way, reen the Turk has spened his even to see The monstrous wrong of human slavery: The market there for slaves, is now no more But still exists upon the Atlantic shore Is our United States! Ob, think of that. The Turk, the savage Turk, puts clavery flat Beneath his feor! All Tunis now is free. And then this wavage Tuck lauke o'er the see And points to us, Americans, who hold Men yet in bondage, for the love of gold. The Turk abead of us, in doing right, And we live beasting, in this lead of light!!

But, in the waters of this great Republic, The trade in Slaves can go on very sleek, And its all right-if Devile laugh in bell, There meet be glee, I think, to see how well, Our Legislatur's grave, (in Cungress met,) Discripinate and great distinctions get, Where bond exist; and all to favor what, le eyes of nations, is, our sin and blot!

But there's another right! The nations wake, The abriction nations, and a league they make For right of mutual search, to stop the drain From Africa, but lot 'tiv all in valu That they invite our country to units In such a nuble scheme, to help the right. Shame on us, we refuse! Our flag shall wave Underebed, the Trader and his hands to cave! Yes, we, Americans, and poor Brazil Will botp this direful, belieb traffic still! All christendore looks on with great amuse Indignant at our base, our sorded wave.
